

The initial letters of the surnames of the artists who painted these picture spell out the name of another artist. He is British and there is an important picture by him in Blackburn Art Gallery. The illustrations are in the correct order, and are arranged on three lines - first name, middle name and surname.

The artists in the clues are of different nationalities and most are not represented at Blackburn.

